Persistent Complainants and Unreasonable Behaviour

Oakdale is committed to handling all complaints fairly. However, in rare cases, individuals may act unreasonably or persistently in ways that affect staff wellbeing and complaint resolution.

Unreasonable behaviour includes:

- Excessive or repetitive contact that unjustifiably consumes staff time
- Refusing to accept outcomes or raising issues without new evidence
- Abusive, threatening, or intimidating conduct
- Contacting multiple staff or departments about the same issue

Persistent complainants are those who continue pursuing a complaint after a final response has been given, without new evidence.

In such cases, Oakdale may take proportionate action, such as:

- Assigning a single point of contact
- Limiting communication methods and frequency
- Ceasing responses unless new, relevant information is provided
- Escalating internally if behaviour risks staff wellbeing or service delivery

Oakdale Staff Concerns

Oakdale staff members who wish to raise a complaint or concern related to their employment, including issues involving colleagues, management, or workplace practices, must do so through Oakdale's Grievance Policy. This ensures that all concerns are handled in a structured, fair, and confidential manner. Staff are encouraged to raise issues promptly and follow the outlined procedure to support timely and effective resolution.

Whistleblowing

Oakdale is committed to maintaining the highest standards of integrity and accountability. If you are a client or external party and have serious concerns about misconduct, fraud, or unethical behavior involving Oakdale services or staff, we encourage you to raise these in line with Oakdale's Whistleblowing Policy. Any concerns raised are treated with confidentiality and respect, and Oakdale takes all concerns seriously to ensure they are thoroughly and fairly investigated.

Governance and Quality Assurance Arrangements

Oakdale utilises the Healthcare Complaints Analysis Toolkit (HCAT) to analyse complaints, identify key themes, and support continuous improvement.

Comments, Compliments and Complaints Policy

HCAT works by categorising complaints into specific domains, which help structure analysis and highlight areas for learning. These domains are outlined and defined below.

Healthcare Complaints Analysis Tool (HCAT) Domains:

Domain	a domain refers to a broad category that represents a key area of healthcare service where issues or concerns may arise
Safety	concerns related to actual harm or risk of harm to clients
Effectiveness	issues involving poor outcomes or concerns about the quality of care
Access/Availability	problems with waiting times, appointment booking, or communication barriers
Environment	complaints about cleanliness, facilities, or physical accessibility
Listening/Communication	issues with clarity, tone, respect, or how information is shared
Respect/Experience	concerns about dignity, equality, or cultural sensitivity in patient interactions

Process

- Monthly: The Governance Team conducts monthly reviews of all complaints.
- Analysis of key themes: Each complaint is coded using the HCAT domains to extract key themes and learning.
- Quarterly Reporting: Summary reports are shared quarterly with the Board and the relevant Governance Group.
- Annual Audit: An annual evaluation is conducted against CQC, NHS, Ofsted, and HCAT standards.

CommentsComplimentsandComplaintsPolicy_V5_January2026

Oakdale Group includes: Oakdale Centre CIC, Oakdale Therapies Ltd, BUSS Model Ltd.

Quality Improvement Cycle

Each complaint feeds into a Plan-Do-Study-Act (PDSA) loop:

Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) Monitored

- The number of complaints and the time taken to resolve them is regularly monitored.
- The percentage of complaints falling under each HCAT domain is tracked to identify themes and trends.
- Client satisfaction post-resolution is recorded to assess the effectiveness of complaint handling within Oakdale.
- Repeat complaints and unresolved cases will be monitored to highlight any areas needing further attention.

Communication

- Complaint trends will be shared at the relevant Oakdale Governance Group Meetings for consideration and discussion.
- Complaint trends are shared with Heads of Service to support wider communication and targeted service improvements.
